CO-OPERATION IS URGED AT BANQUET

APPEAL IS MADE FOR SUPPORT OF COLLEGE AND HIGH SCHOOL.

ATHLETICS DISCUSSED

Business Men are Told That Football Teaches Lessons Valuable in Later Life.

An appeal for co-operation with both the State Teachers College and the Maryville High School, the administration and the students, was the keynote of the addresses at the Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Elks Club last night. About 100 business men and members of the College and High School faculties attended.

President Uel W. Lamkin told of the growth of the College during the last three years. He said that three years ago there was a total enrollment of 1119 students for the four terms. In 1923, the total enrollment will be 3309 students. The fall term enrollment this year will be 742, including the students in the Conservatory of Music.

The fall enrollment three years ago was 255, Mr. Lamkin said.

"But I hope we will get to the point when we will quit talking numbers," he said. "Five hundred college students will make an institution economically administered and an effective force for the training of teachers of Northwest Missouri."

The College head then appealed to his audience for support of the athletic teams, for, he said, there is nothing that will advertise the College better than successful athletic teams.

L. L. St. Clair, principal of the High School, said that there would be two or three experiments carried on in the laboratories this year. He reminded his hearers that the students needed co-operation and encouragement in carrying these on.

H. Frank Lawrence, athletic coach at the State Teachers College, called attention to the number of men out for football practice this fall. Three full teams were out every night, he said, fighting for places on the Varsity, and there are only four or five of them who don't stand the best chance in the world to make the team.

The coach appealed to the business men to come out to the football field and watch the men in their daily scrimmage work.

"This will not only increase the efforts of the men, but also give them an idea that they are playing for something else besides the sport," Lawrence said.

Teaches Valuable Lessons

The football player plays for the school, plays for himself and plays for the coach and the people of the town, the coach added. The principles of good sportsmanship go with the game, he continued, and the things the men learn on the gridiron will be valuable throughout life.

L. E. Ziegler, superintendent of the High School, emphasized the fact that the public school was a public investment, and that the investment should pay dividends to the investors.

"I hope you will remember, while you are watching those 190-pound men fighting for places on the College team, that there are some smaller men up at the other end of the field fighting for places on your High School team," Ziegler continued. "Some of those men who are now fighting for places on the College team at one time were fighting for places on the Maryville High School football team."

The speaker then called attention to an article in the Democrat-Forum of August 29, in which the Headmaster of Choate Preparatory School of Wallington, Conn., said, "Maryville High School gives the best all-around high school course of any that I am acquainted with."

Dr. Jeese Miller, Jr., told the banqueters that all of them had something to learn from the athletic teams. The submerging of personalities for the sake of the team is a valuable lesson for all, he said. He appealed to the business men to support the athletic teams of the College and High School.

State Officer Present

Dr. Henry S. Curtis, state director of physical education, was present at the banquet last night. Dr. Curtis cooperates with all schools of the state in playground and athletic activities.

He said that there is an entirely new era in athletics since the war. This was due, he said, to the examples the war taught us. It showed the bene-

L. Pierre Bottemer, a French artist specializing on landscape, figures and models, is in Maryville for a two weeks stay. He is giving demonstrations of his art ability at the Yehle Dry Goods Co., and is painting portraits there which can be purchased by Maryville art lovers.

Mr. Bottemer is a graduate of Heidelberg University in Germany and also of the Chicago Art Institute.

The French artist told a Democrat-Forum reporter this afternoon that he would like to see genuine oil paintings in every American home for he believes this will aid in a greater appreciation of art among the people of this country.

Bottemer has pictures permanently hung in the Metropolitan Art Museum and the Chicago Art Institute. He also has done a number of pictures for the Red Book magazine which were used for front cover work.

His most valuable works include paintings of "Cette Semaine," (This Week) which now hangs in the Casino at Monte Carlo and is valued at $10,000. His famous "Au Revoir, Mademoiselle" hangs in the American-Franco Hotel in Paris.

S. T. C. STUDENTS HAVE WALKOUT DAY

BUGLE CALL WAS SIGNAL FOR EVERYONE TO LEAVE CLASS

SURPRISED INSTRUCTORS

Games and Other Sports Amused the Student Body Until Tables Were Prepared For the Feed

This morning the call of a bugle sounded throughout the halls of the College building and immediately 651 students deserted their class rooms leaving the astonished teacher behind. The occasion was the annual walk-out day that is sponsored by the seniors every fall.

From all appearances the students completely surprised the teachers as none of the instructors were aware of the event. Some of the teachers were even giving written lessons when the un-prepared students were saved by the signal.

The word was passed around yesterday to all of the students that the time had come. The seniors allied with the kitchen force at the girls dormitory prepared the feed for the many students.

The picnic was given, half a mile north of town in the woods. The College faculty were the honored guests

Baseball, horse-shoe and other games were played by the picknickers until the feed had been spread by the senior class on the tables east of the play ground. At 12:30 o'clock the table was prepared under the direction of Chef Dan Miller and "chow" was called.

By 2 o'clock most of the students had left the field and returned to their homes, a happier but tired bunch of students.

The walk-out was by far the most successful that the College has had in many years. This is because it was an organized affair and all of the students did their part. Before it was definitely decided to have the walkout this morning the students were called into the assembly hall and a vote taken by the seniors. The results were that the students were 100 per cent in attendance at the affair.

On the way to the walk-out grounds the students stopped at President Uel Lamkin's residence and at the intersection of Main and Third street to give College yells and songs.

GOVERNOR ISSUES OWN NEWSPAPER

"THE RECORD" APPEARS ON STREETS OKLAHOMA CITY TODAY

ASSAILS KU KLUX KLAN

Oklahoma Executive Is in Conference Today With Military Officials to Prevent Assembly Tomorrow.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 25—True to his promise, Governor Walton put his own newspaper on the streets of Oklahoma City today.

It was called "The Record," and made its appearance at a time when excitement was high and military officials were in conference with the Governor on plans to prevent, by use of arms if necessary, the assembly tomorrow of what Governor Walton terms the Ku Klux Klan legislature.

Volume 1, Number 1 of the Record carried sensational headlines directed at the Invisible Empire. Following statements of the Governor that the Oklahoma newspapers were not printing all the news, he declared that he would issue a paper of his own, so that the people would know the truth.

The leading story carried this caption, "Are you for the American Republic or the Invisible Empire?"

Another story cited Section 19 of the Criminal Code which states that if two or more persons threaten to intimidate persons from free exercise of privileges guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, that they shall be fined not more than $5000 and imprisoned for not longer than ten years. The story was signed, "J. C. Walton, Governor of Oklahoma."

Another box-car type of headline stated that "Mob Cuts Off Man's Ears."

The editor's name was given as Aldrich Blake, former secretary and present counsellor of the Governor.

Doctor Curtis Speaks on English Athletics

Director of Physical Education Gives Five Rules of Sportsmanship Which Should be Observed.

The rules of sportsmanship and requirements of athletes in England were main points in address that Dr. Henry S. Curtis, state director of physical education, gave before the high school and grade pupils at the High School this morning.

Doctor Curtis said many English schools require as much as twenty-three hours of physical training every week of those enrolled in athletics. The Doctor gave five rules of sportsmanship that he thought everyone engaged in any sort of an athletic game should observe:

Practice courtesy to opponent; play the game according to the rules; abide by the decision of the umpires; be a courageous looser; and fifth, a generous winner. These, he referred to as the rules of life. The speaker in his talk gave many interesting facts concerning athletics in England and in America and showed the benefits and weaknesses of competitive athletics.

Daniel Eversole Is More Impressive Than Cuno, Says A Former Resident

The following article was written for readers of the Democrat-Forum by Dale Carnagey, a former resident of Nodaway County. Mr. Carnagey is now in Europe and the article below tells of some of his experiences. He is now working on a new book, the plot of which is laid in Nodaway County.

Mr. Carnagey's letter is as follows:

I have your letter asking me to write you a long letter for the Nodaway Democrat. I believe that according to your letter head it is now called the Democrat-Forum. Well, it used to be the Nodaway Democrat twenty-five years ago when I used to lie with my head in mother's lap while she read the weekly news to the family. You need not think I am going to call it any Democrat-Forum. It always has been and always will be the Nodaway Democrat to me.

Frankly, I never heard of you, Mr. Butts. I don't know whether you are the office boy of the Forum; but your letter gave me a thrill and the reason was this; it was written on a letter head with the words James Todd, Managing Editor. That is a magical name to me. A quarter of a century ago I used to hear my father talk of "Jim" Todd and "Dan" Eversole so much that I regarded them as the intellectual giants of our day. If I ever saw Mr. Todd, I do not now recall it. I guess I never did, for I am sure that the impression that such a meeting would have made upon me, would have lasted. He was just a big name, to me; but I did see Daniel Eversole often. This last winter I was in the Black Forests of Germany. Cuno, then Chancellor of Germany, came there for a week's vacation and stopped at the same hotel where I was living. I met him, and I was not half so much impressed with the ruler of seventy millions of people as I was with Daniel Eversole twenty years ago.

Compares Cuno and Eversole.

Last December a year ago, I returned to Nodaway after an absence of nineteen years. I called in to see Mr. Daniel Eversole, eager to see what kind of an impression that he would make upon me after the passing of all these years. Let me say this: put Cuno and Daniel Eversole together and let a stranger meet them knowing nothing about the past of either man, and he will be more impressed with your Maryville Dry Goods Merchant than with the erstwhile Chancellor. That does not mean that I have a poor opinion of Cuno. He is every inch a cultured gentleman and he has a forceful personality. But I left Maryville hoping that when I reached Mr. Eversole's age that I would have his vivacity and presence and personality. I know I never shall. Had he located in Philadelphia when he did in Maryville, I am sure that he would have become one of the leading merchants of America. I have passed Wanamaker's store in Philadelphia a hundred times, and I have always thought of him as the Daniel Eversole of Philadelphia.

Finds Many Changes.

I found a lot of changes in Nodaway. Even the 102 seemed to have contracted. Don't you try to ensnare me into writing letters for you by saying that "all my Nodaway friends will be glad to hear from me." I discovered that about all my Nodaway friends had moved west—Colorado or the coast. Only one had gone to New York, so far as I could find out. There are not two dozen people left in Nodaway that ever heard of me or that would give a snap of their fingers to read one of my letters.

As I was saying, I found a lot of changes in Nodaway. The Linville no longer looked like the Biltmore. The buildings all seemed smaller. The M. E. Church seemed as if it were a lot closer to the Linville than it ought to be or used to be; but the blow that saddened me most was this: I went into what used to be Schumacher and Kirch's grocery. There used to be a fountain there in the center of the store, and it had iron shelves on it for the holding of green vegetables. The water dripped down over the vegetables and fell into the little iron pond below where a number of gold fish were swimming about. It is gone. It is there no longer! Think of that. I saw that fountain a hundred times as a child and it left an impression on my mind which the passing of the years never has eradicated and never will eradicate. Maryville boasts a live Chamber of Commerce; but what it meant by sitting still and seeing that fountain with the gold fish removed, I do not know.

Many Trees Die.

Seriously, now, the thing that did sadden me most on my visit to Nodaway was the death of so many trees. I did not expect to find many people that I knew. I knew that what used to be Charley Carr's barn would not look as high as it did after I had lived ten years in New York; but I could not understand why so many of the trees died and were not replaced by new young ones. I think that is a great pity.

One day Mr. James Evans near Bedison and his two daughters, Mae and Etta, with whom I used to attend Rose Hill school, drove me past Council Corner's School House. There it stood, its yard as bleak and bare and uninviting and treeless as it was 25 years ago. During those twenty-five years a whole procession of so-called educators have taught school there. They have taught the children what the annual rainfall of Chile is, that tigers are found in India and how fits of supervised play and athletics.

"It is not a question of whether the boy will work or whether he will play," Dr. Curtis said, "it is a question of whether he will loaf. The great number of crimes in our country is due to the misuse of leisure time. If we can see to it that the boy and girl is engaged in healthy play, the number of crimes would be reduced."

Dr. Curtis asserted that when boys and girls are idle, they will gather at some undesirable place and here will plan their crimes. Recreational centers would do away with much of this, he said.

"Ten per cent of our crime bill would maintain all the playgrounds and recreational centers in this country," he continued.

Dr. Curtis appealed for the encouragement of athletics and playground activities in all schools of Missouri.

Dr. Jesse Miller, Sr., presided at the banquet. Music was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Loren Schnabel.

Should Demand Better Service

The Bedford Times-Republican had the following in Monday's issue about the Burlington service at Maryville.

We certainly hope that the service in the future will be such as will give no reason for compiaint, and that every employee at this station will understand that they are servants of the public and that they are paid by the company to render such service to all who patronize this great railroad system.

One of the greatest things for the city of Maryville to do is to demand better railroad service. Good service at all railroad stations is one of the best advertisements any city can have and especially a city with a hospital that has a reputation of being one of the best in this section of the country. It would go a long way toward increasing the attendance.

The cattle were loaded Friday at Magoum, Texas, and shipped to St. Joseph, being brought here yesterday by a special train. The cattle, 566 head in all, were driven to the farm, and appeared to have stood the long trip very well.

Double Braking Efficiency

Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes, because they double the braking surface brought into action, increase the braking efficiency of the car practically 100 per cent.

The action is simple, positive and rapid. A slight pressure on the service pedal (the method of operation is unchanged) and all four wheels are retarded—the car is quickly, smoothly and safely brought to a stop. With these proved Buick four-wheel brakes a stop is made in a much shorter distance with a minimum of skidding danger.

Obtaining braking friction at four contacts with the road increases the braking power and lessens the wear on each brake lining and each tire.

The 1924 Buick models, with four-wheel brakes, a more powerful engine, beautiful new bodies and numerous other advanced features fully exemplify the Buick policy of incorporating every improvement that will give greater safety, comfort and satisfaction to the owner.

NAVY FLIERS SEEK RECORDS IN ST LOUIS SPEED CLASSIC

St. Louis, Sept. 25.—Four navy fliers and three army birdmen will seek to annex the air speed classic of the international air races to be held here October 1, 2 and 3. With the arrival here of army entrants, a keen spirit of friendly rivalry between the sailors and soldiers became evident.

The army pilots here are Lieut. J. D. Corkville of Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., and Lieut. Walter Miller of Crissy Field, San Francisco. Lieut. Alex Pearson of McCook Field, Dayton, O., is expected within a day or two.

Corkville will fly the same famous Curtiss racer with which Lieut. Russel L. Maughan won the Pulitzer race at Detroit last year. Lieut. Miller will use the same machine of that type that was used in the Detroit event.

Pearson will use a Verville Sperry racer with a 503 horsepower Curtiss engine. This plane is expected to make 225 miles an hour.

The four navy entrants are Lieuts. C. W. Callaway, L. N. Boxder, H. J. Brew and Ensign A. J. Williams. The first two will fly Wright fighters and the others will use Curtiss racers.

New Allied Conference May Be Called Soon

A sensational report was received here that the Berlin government has placed a ring of troops around the capital, in order to avert possible attacks.

The British newspapers consider the French victory a hollow one in view of the signs of chaos in Germany.

DANIEL EVERSOLE IS MORE IMPRESSIVE THAN CUNO, SAYS A FORMER RESIDENT.

many men were killed at the Battle of Bull Run; yet not one of them ever had the foresight or vision or leadership to turn the children loose for a day and take some spades and go down to a creek bottom somewhere and dig up a few trees and set them out in the school yard. Perhaps, the teachers were not to blame. The school board might have censured them severely for the loss of so much valuable time.

Affected by Environment.

I did know once upon a time what the annual rainfall of Chile, is, but, Allah be praised, I have long since forgotten that and the casualty list of Bull Run. Education should be a matter of character development as well as the cramming of useless facts into children's minds. Surely, we are affected by our environment! I have spent many a year in college and in pouring over books out of college; but I have learned more from my associations with people and from my environment than I ever learned in a class room. However, please do not think I am holding myself up as a model. I am a good example to avoid. But I do think that it is quite as important to develop in a child a love and even reverence for flowers and trees and animals as it is to make them memorize the rainfall of Chile and the causalty list of Bull Run. To me, a tree is almost a holy thing. As Tennyson says about his flower plucked from the crannied wall, if we knew what it is, or a tree is, if we knew the mysterious process by which it send down its roots and gets a nourishing sap that builds a delicate tracery of leaves and branches and makes a substance from which our homes and even this paper on which I write are made, if we knew how that was done, we should know what man is and God is. So will someone tell me why Council Corners and a lot of other schools in Nodaway have no trees? To me, it is a very, very great pity. In education, we need to have a proper conception of values. There are some things more important than know how much rainfall Chile has each year and how many men were shot at Bull Run.

You asked me to write you a letter of half a million words. (I must confess that this one looks as if it were going to reach that number before I finish). I am taking a good hour and a half to comply with your request. Now here is a request I have to make of you: Won't you write an editorial about the advisability, yes, the indespensibility of having trees planted in the many of the bare, sun-parched, storm-swept, ugly, barren school yards of the county? I may be wrong. Perhaps Council Corners is the only guilty one. I must not jump to conclusions from so little evidence.

Writing a Novel.

You asked about the novel I am writing. Yes, it will be a Nodaway County novel. I shall call Maryville, Carson Oaks. However, don't expect too much of my novel. The real historian of Nodaway County is Homer Croy. His West of the Water Tower is a magnificent creation. The New York Times says that it is "An American novel to be proud of." It surely is. Nodaway especially can be proud of it and Homer, too.

All I am going to tell you about my novel now is this: In it, I am going to put that fountain with the gold fish back in Schumacher and Kirch's grocery, and I am going to put the hitch racks back around the court house.

Some people think that this trouble over here between France and Germany in the Ruhr is causing a lot of talk and ill feeling; but those who lived in Nodaway in the days when the discussion arose about taking the hitch racks down from around the court house square—well, they remember a social upheaval that was a social upheaval. Now, no one gives a hang whether there is a hitch rack there or not. I saw more autos parked in Maryville in one afternoon than I saw in Naples, Italy, during ten days all put together. Naples is a town of, well, it may be around a half million. I am up here in the Alps and there is no book of reference here. I don't even know the population of Naples or the rainfall of Chile or how many men were killed at Bull Run. I am lost! Lost! Lost!

Coming Back to U. S.

You asked me to tell you about my adventures here in Europe. I have been over here for a couple of years and I am coming back to America in a year or so to have some adventures. From what I can hear America seems to be the place where all the adventures occur. I met an Englishwoman in Italy a year ago. She was a cultured woman from a good family. She told me that she had just had a letter from her brother who had gone to America. He had tried to cross the continent from New York to Frisco, and she said that he had been held up by "brigands"—that was the word she used—so often that he had been compelled to return to New York and "book his passage" on a boat through the Canal. She was serious about it. She believed it. I dared not tell her what I thought of the letter for fear of offending her. We do not have any such adventures as that here.

One day in London I asked James McBey what he thought America was like. He is not provincial or insular in his outlook at all. He was the official artist for the British War Office in the Palestine expedition. He sells many etchings in New York but he never saw America. He replied: "Well, I have gathered all the impressions I have of America from two things, the advertisements of your magazines and the movies; so I think of America as a place where everybody eats breakfast foods and where cow boys ride down through the street shooting up the town." He was exaggerating a bit, of course; but the average European forms almost his total conception of America from what he sees on the screen. You can easily imagine how false an idea he has.

Up in Austrian Alps.

Your letter reached me up in the Austrian Alps. As I write now I can look up and see right at hand enormous peaks, covered with glaciers and jutting away up into the deep blue sky. Pine forests are all around this little hotel. Twenty feet away two mountain rivers meet. They are not the babbling brooks that the poets sing about, but veritable roaring torrents, foaming in cascades over thousands of huge granite boulders. The mountain on which this hotel is situated is also covered with a glacier—at least the top of it is. It is seldom that I get to see the top. I have to walk for twenty minutes before I can get a view of it and it is often hidden in clouds then. It is a magnificent spot. Every day I think of what Kipling said of these high Alps: "This is no place for man. The Gods dwell here."

There is not even a wagon road here. Everything has to be brought up on pack horse. That is the reason why I am writing on both sides of my paper. I am almost out of it. I can look up and see not very far above me the spot where the trees have to give up the fight for life—the timber line. We are 4-5 of a mile here. Trees will grow considerably over a mile above sea level. I do not know the exact distance nor the rainfall of Chile nor the number killed at Bull Run.

One day last week, Mrs. Carnagey and I walked on up to the glaciers — a three hours' walk from here. We scrambled out over a great sea of ice 200 feet thick that had been there on the side of the mountain in the days of Belshazzar and Babylon, even before the hitch racks were taken down from around the square. It was a thrilling experience, one that we shall long cherish.

Herds of Goats and Cows.

Up there at the timber line, five minutes away from a glacier is a very comfortable hotel or "Hutte" as it is called. It will accommodate 250 guests and is the property of the German and Austrian Alpine Verein or Club. One can sit there by the side of a glacier and have almost anything in the way of food that he could get in Orrsburg or New York. Vegetables will not grow there, but the mountain sides are covered with a rich grass. There are many herds of milk goats and cows up here. Some of the Swiss cheese that you eat in Maryville may come from these little cheese making places here at the timber line. The cows are kept here during the summer and are taken down to the lower altitudes for the winter. Wherever you find a cheese-making establishment, you will find some fat hogs—they are given the whey. In fact, within a five minutes walk of a glacier, right at the timber line, I found two nice white hogs who came up and looked friendly and evidently knew I came from Missouri and understood hogs, for they rolled over for me so that I could scratch their bellies with my mauntain climbing stick. I knew that hogs could live on the top of the Lee Hill, but I never knew until then that they could thrive up above the timber line.

As I look back over this letter, I find that I have written a lot of nonsense and dabbled into some things that are most emphatically none of my business. Delete whatever you see fit, or toss the whole thing in the waste basket if you wish.

Curiously enough, I have been intending to write to the Nodaway Democrat for at least a month, and ask you to send your paper to me to the Paris address on this letter head. I want to keep in touch with Nodaway affairs while I am writing my novel. Will you let me know what I owe you for a year's subscription, and I shall send my cheque.

I am,
Yours until Maryville has a glacier,
Dale Carnagey.

LIVE STOCK PRICES LOWER —RECEIPTS ARE LIBERAL

Kansas City Stock Yards, Sept. 24.—With cattle receipts in Omaha and Chicago the largest of the season and fairly liberal runs in Kansas City, the cattle market showed further weakness. Extremes were steady to 25 cents lower. There was a heavy run of stockers and feeders with a broad demand. Hog prices were 5 to 15 cents lower, mostly 10 cents off. Trade was active at the decline. Lamb prices were off 25 cents here and sharp declines were reported elsewhere.

Today's Receipts.

Receipts today were 40,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep compared with 33,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs and 19,000 sheep a week ago. And 36,450 cattle, 8,450 hogs, and 14,325 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

Trade in fat cattle opened slowly and prices with but few exceptions ruled 10 to 15 cents lower. Extremes in the market were steady to 25 cents off. Only a few loads of steers showed any material amount of feed and they brought $10 to $11.25 and were slightly lower than last week's close. Wintered summer grazed steers sold at $7.75 to $8.90 and straight grass fat steers at $4.00 to $8.10, mostly $5.75 to $7.25. Cows and heifers which were higher last week opened this week 10 to 20 cents lower with liberal supplies available. Calves and bulls were steady.

Stockers and Feeders.

Though liberal supplies of thin cattle were offered, weather conditions were more favorable, and an active demand was in evidence. Prices for most kinds held steady. Indications are that eastern states will buy freely the next few weeks.

Hogs.

Liberal supplies of hogs were available again today and prices ruled lower at all markets. Here the decline was 5 to 15 cents, average decline being 10 cents. The top price was $8.50 and bulk of sales $7.75 to $8.40. Packing sows brought $6.25 to $7.00 and pigs and stock hogs $6.50 to $7.25. A good clearance was reported. Iowa and Illinois continued to buy feeding grades freely.

Sheep and Lambs.

Omaha and Chicago had large supplies of lambs today and quoted prices off 25 to 50 cents. That caused a 25 cent decline here, though demand was fully equal to the supply. Most of the western lambs sold at $13.00 to $13.50 and mature lambs $11.75 to $12.50. Few sheep were offered.

Horses and Mules.

No quotable change was reported in prices of horses and mules. The good classes sold readily and the common to fair classes neglected.

Market Correspondent.

"Sheep in my pen" seems to be the game of the season.

On Monday afternoon of this week the school took about 20 minutes to clean up the schoolyard a little. Some playground equipment is to be made and placed on it soon.

The agriculture class is studying sheep this week. Next week we will take up cattle a little more thoroughly and demonstration of the Babcock test for milk is planned. Also we are planning to keep a record to see if we have any star boarders in the milk cow line at home.

We are having one recitation a week on current events. This is an A class recition and takes the place of grammar on Monday morning.

A live stock survey of our community has been taken by the agriculture class.

The little children are learning to read and the first grade can all "cross the river" without falling in more than two or three times. They seem to enjoy it. They went fishing too, the other day and caught all the fish so we had to quit.

To the patrons and residents of the community we wish to extend a cordial invitation to come and visit "your" school, as it is truly yours and your support is requested and expected by the teacher. If any little troubles should arise, come to the teacher and talk it over with him first. You will find him always ready to welcome suggestions for the betterment of the school as these future citizens deserve the best that can be given them, that they may be able to fill their places in the future so near at hand for them. Our slogan is "Come again, the latchstring hangs outside."

Kansas City, Kans.—"When I was a girl just coming into womanhood, I became all run-down, weak and nervous. I was pale as death. My people became very much alarmed; they thought I was going into a decline. My mother took me to our druggist and asked if he could recommend some medicine that would be good for my case. He told her to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and she did. WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT STAND

Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonial letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious."—Mrs. GEORGE W. BURCHELL, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Modern Conveniences in Nearly Every Home

Are the Result In Development Of Electricity, Telephone, Radio, Gas and Quick Transportation

Practically every home in this nation has the advantage of modern conveniences resulting from development of electricity, telephone, radio, gas and quick transportation.

If service rendered by these utilities had not been made nation wide and their output figured on a quantity basis, not even kings could afford to pay for a fraction of conveniences which the American home has today for a few dollars a month. Electricity, gas and telephone are the greatest servants of American housewives.

In France, the American Commercial Attache at Paris says poor telephone and telegraph service are causing proposals to take operation out of the hands of the government and turn it over to private companies.

In Austria, telephone operators on the government system are reported to deliberately slow up calls when refused passes on government railroads.

In London the telephone is a luxury only for the rich, while in Czecho-Slovakia it is a case of buy government telephone bonds or lose your phone.

And so it goes, while here in the U. S. there is a telephone in almost every home and it is connected with every other phone in the United States.

What we call household necessities in the U. S. are considered luxuries in Europe. What a monument to American initiative and enterprise.

Is it any wonder American women are noted for their intelligence and beauty, when they have such servants to do their bidding instantly and without complaint? —Sikeston Standard.
